DETAILED ACTION

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 1-3,9 and 10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being clearly anticipated by Tavana et al. (5,682,107) .

As per claims 1-3, Nakaya discloses in figure 1 a programmable logic device (100) including a plurality of logic array blocks (101) connected by a PLD routing architecture (see figure 2B), wherein at least one LAB includes a logic element (300, see figures 3A, and 5A) configurable to arithmetically combine a plurality of binary input signals (AB) in a plurality of stages, the LE comprising look-up table logic having K inputs (a "K-LUT") including a plurality of portions (F,J,H,J) each portion connected to a routing architecture (see figure 3A) via an input line network and having circuitry for generating binary result signals(H,C) indicative separate one a plurality of stages of the arithmetic combination of binary input signals, and providing the binary result signal to an output line network, wherein the input line network and the output line network have input multiplexers and output multiplexers, respectively, as claimed (see figure 3A-3C).

As per claims 9 and 10, the input line network as disclosed in figures figure 3A-3C clearly has a plurality of multiplexer configurable to perform selection functions as claimed.

4. Claims 12-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Tavana et al. (5,682,107) in view of Rose et al. (5,724,276).

Tavana et al. as explained above discloses the invention substantially as claimed. Tavana et al. also discloses in figure 5A a first K-LUT portion including a first sub-portion (F) and a sub-second portion (G) and a second K-LUT portion including a third sub-portion (H) and a fourth sub-portion (J). It is noted the Tavana et al does not disclose least one output multiplexer coupled to select among signals at the output of the K-LUT under the control of a carry in signal from a preceding K-LUT portion to the logic element as claimed. However, Rose et al disclosed in figure 2b additional circuit elements including an output multiplexer (F5) coupled to select among signals at the output of the K-LUT under the control of a carry in signal from a preceding K-LUT portion to the logic element. It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art to provide Tavana et al. with additional circuit element as taught by Rose et al in order to implement additional useful function in an efficient manner (see bridging paragraph of cols. 1 and 2 in Rose et al.)

5. Claims 4-8 and 11 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
6. Applicant's arguments have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
7. Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Chuong D. Ngo whose telephone number is (571) 272-3731. The examiner can normally be reached on Monday-Friday.
